[ABOUT ME]

Hey Reader! I'm Mihir, a young Graphic Designer (and secretly a creative goofball) representing a generation that's curious, messy, fast-learning, and unafraid to think big.

Built through early industry exposure right after graduation, I've developed an understanding of how ideas evolve and how strong creative work is built.

With few years of experience shaping visual languages for spaces and experiences, campaigns and social media content, I also support ideation when needed.

I aim to keep refining my craft to create work that challenges outdated thinking and leaves a lasting impact. Still early in the journey, but driven by curiosity, growth, and the excitement to keep learning and contributing.
